Lectures by onboard study leaders enlighten you with the history, legends and modern life of these dramatic cities and villages.

Join your fellow alumnae for this outstanding program and great value! FLOURISHING CULTURES
ALONG IBERIA'S
HISTORIC TRADE ROUTES AND THE AGE OF DISCOVERY

are showcased on this voyage to fortified medieval towns and modern cities that retain the artistic and architectural treasures from the Moorish Period. Previous exposure to the Greeks and Romans and the Moors' acceptance of both Jewish and Christian life allowed for the coexistence of diverse cultural groups, which led to great leaps forward in algebra, medicine, optics, horticulture, art and architecture. This blossoming of knowledge and ability was the impetus behind the Golden Age of Discovery, when ships sailed from these shores to the New World. It was those journeys, which brought the bounty back to Iberia, that created great wealth and established an aristocratic tradition of savoring the leisurely pace of Mediterranean life in the idyllic seaside cities, towns and villages that you will experience on this voyage.

Andalusia's lively capital, on the Guadalquivir River. Then drive along Colón Avenue, lined with typical Sevillana houses, to the neoclassical Maestranza Bullring (the largest in Spain) and the Golden Tower, a remnant of Seville's Moorish fortifications. Walk through Santa Cruz Quarter, the old part of the city, a gleaming maze of white houses and flower-filled patios. Tour the legendary Alcázar, a UNESCO World Heritage site featuring the distinctive 14th-century, Mudéjar-style former residence of Seville's Moroccan and Spanish rulers.

Lisbon, Portugal

Lisbon's rich cultural heritage is reflected in its well-preserved palaces, magnificent churches and impressive castle.

Portimão, the Algarve

On Portugal's charming, sun-washed southern coast lies Portimão in the historic province of Algarve. Settled in ancient times by the Phoenicians and Romans, the Algarve was later ruled by the Moors, and today its Moorish heritage survives in its distinctive architecture and savory regional cuisine. During the 15th and 16th centuries, intrepid Portuguese mariners, including Vasco da Gama, set sail from the Algarve's shores on voyages of discovery that eventually circled the globe before triumphantly returning to Lisbon.

Visit the scenic hilltop village of Alte and stroll through the nearby town of Silves, a medieval center of art, poetry and learning. Walk along the ramparts of its 12th-century Moorish castle and visit the cathedral, a unique fusion of Romanesque, Gothic and Baroque architecture.

Seville, Andalusia, Spain

Enjoy the unique experience of cruising into the heart of extraordinary Seville,

The idyllic Balearic Island of Ibiza, a UNESCO World Heritage site, is famous for its cove beaches, mesmerizing crystal-clear waters and high towering cliffs, and it is one of Europe's oldest towns.

◆ POST-CRUISE BARCELONA OPTION

Known locally as La Seu, the Catalan Gothic cathedral in Old Palma was built after the conquest of Mallorca by King James I of Aragon on the former site of a Moorish temple.

The magnificent Cathedral is a classic example of late Gothic architecture and is Europe's second-largest Christian house of worship after St. Peter's Basilica in Rome. Inside, view the monument to Christopher Columbus, whose remains were transported here from Havana, Cuba, in 1902. Later, enjoy a traditional flamenco dance performance on board the ship.

Gibraltar, British Crown Colony

The southernmost tip of the Iberian Peninsula, Gibraltar was considered by the ancient Greeks and Romans to be one of the two Pillars of Hercules, marking the then boundary of the known world. Drive to the "Top of the Rock," the 1400-foot-high limestone promontory guarding the Strait of Gibraltar, which separates Europe and Africa. Observe the amusing antics of Gibraltar's Barbary apes, the only colony of wild monkeys in Europe. See the impressive geological wonders in St. Michael's Cave and, across the strait, Jebel Moussa, the mountain said to be the second Pillar of Hercules. Enjoy an afternoon at leisure to explore "The Rock" on your own.

Granada, Andalusia, Spain

Granada is scenically located atop three hills framed by the dramatic backdrop of the snow-clad Sierra Nevada Mountains.

Known during the Classical Age as one of the Pillars of Hercules, the Rock of Gibraltar has stood as a symbol of Britain's imperial might since 1713, when it was ceded by Spain.

From here, monarchs of the Nasrid Dynasty ruled for 250 years over the last Muslim kingdom in Spain, leaving a priceless architectural legacy—the magnificent Alhambra, a UNESCO World Heritage site. Enjoy time at leisure to walk through its outer precincts, admire the genius of medieval Moorish craftsmen within and then stroll through the beautifully landscaped Generalife Gardens.

Ibiza, Balearic Islands

Be on deck as we approach the Mediterranean island of Ibiza, a spectacular UNESCO World Heritage site not often visited by Americans. Visit the well-preserved, walled Old Town and tour the island's Renaissance fortifications and the historic Las Salinas Reserve, where the Carthaginians began extracting salt from the sea over 2000 years ago.

Palma de Mallorca, Balearic Islands

The imposing citadel overlooking the harbor was converted into the Spanish Royal Palace of La Almudaina in the 13th century. See the magnificent sandstone Palma Cathedral, begun in 1230 and constructed over 300 years; it represents the heights of the Catalan Gothic style. Early 20th-century renovations to its interior by the famed architect Antoni Gaudí produced a uniquely harmonious blend of old and new.

Barcelona

The lively and beautiful quarters of Barcelona's Mediterranean metropolis are filled with the artistic treasures of Gaudí, Picasso and Dalí. The city center has the greatest concentration of Gothic architecture in Europe and proudly displays its heritage and roots as a Roman trading port.
